AMERICAN SALVAGE ASSOCIATION
WELCOMES MAGONE MARINE SERVICE, INC. AS 15th GENERAL MEMBER

Washington, DC – The American Salvage Association (ASA) has welcomed Magone Marine Service, Inc. as a General Member into the association. The addition of Magone Marine marks a total of 15 General Members in the membership of the ASA.

In operation for more than 30 years, Magone Marine Service, Inc. is an established service provider in the marine industry. Located in Dutch Harbor, Alaska, Magone Marine offers a range of services including marine salvage, mobile emergency repair services, freight and marine logistics services, and marine construction services. Dan Magone serves as President of the company, and Sue Magone is Vice President/Treasurer.

“We are very proud to welcome Magone Marine Service, Inc. into the American Salvage Association. The company’s experience in marine salvage adds tremendous value to our slate of members and to the industry itself,” said George Wittich, ASA President.

The American Salvage Association is the national trade association representing North America’s professional salvors. Its goal is to promote professionalism and improve marine casualty response in American coastal and inland waters.
